2. Dr. Bhooshan Shukla MD, DNB, MRC Psych (UK).

About the workshop

Clinical encounters are complex; not only for patients and their caregivers but also for treating teams. To understand and address the emotions of an individual who is dealing with illness is of utmost importance for building a therapeutic bond.

In the current Covid times, everyone is facing with ever changing norms, uncertainties, and challenges of balancing professional and personal roles. These evoke strong emotional responses. While looking after patients, situations often become emotionally demanding. Thus the theme of preconference workshop this year is “Handling emotional storms in patient care”

This workshop shall play a pivotal role in the professional journey of young colleagues. We expect every resident doctor to make use of this opportunity and participate enthusiastically.
